Supervisor Willard Branson and Planning Commissioner Dr. Ed Marcucci tell of hopes and plans for 1968

Message from Willard Branson to the people of Carmel Valley.

As we enter the year 1968, it is only natural to take an inventory of those matters we will be seeking an answer to in the coming months. While the matters which come to my mind at this time may take a different priority as time develops the events, my present thinking is as follows:

CARMEL VALLEY ROAD

As you know, I have requested that the four lane road as far as Robinson Canyon Road be placed back into the "five year plan." At present, we are trying to advance the priority which it holds within the engineers five year plan for construction.

SLOPE DENSITY

This is one of the immediate actions pending, and it is my hope that we can effect this formula on a workable basis within weeks. The only problem that I see here is that of coordinating the slope density plan with road standards.

You see, it is my opinion that all of us should be able to determine what the "package requirements" are when building, whether it is an individual home or a development. There seems to be an area where we need improvement in communication. It is my hope that we will improve greatly at this level in the near future.

DRAINAGE PLAN

The county is working on a Drainage Master Plan, and I have personally requested information relative to a specific Carmel Valley Drainage Master Plan. We have had problems in the past which could have been avoided had such a plan been available to use as a guideline.

WATER

Speaking of water, I feel that we should, in 1968, take definite steps toward the initial phases of a plan for an additional dam site. I know that groundwork has already been done in this direction, however, it has lost its impetus.

VALLEY AIRSTRIP

Another solution which we must come up with is that of the hazard which exists at Carmel Valley Airport. I sincerely hope that those interested in flying, and particularly those who have planes in the Valley, will contact me so that we can work towards a solution. As it now stands, we have a dangerous situation with children, pets, and horses on the runway. I feel the airport is useful now and will become more important to the economy of the Valley in future years.

INCORPORATION

Of course there are many other changes facing us but we will take them as they come. I still maintain that it is most important that we insure that the growth of Carmel Valley will not only be in proportion to actual needs, but will be as orderly as possible. I have heard repeatedly of the possibility of incorporation for the Carmel Valley Village area. If this is the wish of the people, I shall certainly do all I possibly can to assist.

ZONES OF BENEFIT

We have talked briefly of the Board of Supervisors of "zones of benefit," as it applies to water, drainage, etc., and I subscribe to the theory that citizens would pay for their services and as little else as possible. Incorporation might very well be the answer in this regard. It is self determination and does bear close scrutiny.

AIMS

Generally it will be my aim in 1968 to perform as your supervisor as much as possible on a NEEDS basis—countywide.

There are many things which are desirable, or which we may WANT, but with the escalating taxes and assessments, it will be the NEEDS which we will look to in the future.

The year 1968 can, and will, be exciting and fruitful for all of us in Monterey County, and particularly in Carmel Valley . . . our Valley, which we all want to keep beautiful.

Message from Dr. Ed Marcucci to the people of Carmel Valley.

Dr. Edward Marcucci, Carmel Valley's representative on the County Planning Commission, stresses first and foremost, the Carmel Valley Master Plan, when considering any decision.

"The Master Plan is the official statement of the general objectives for the development of the Valley," Marcucci said,

"and within the limits of practical application, these objectives delineate orderly development."

SLOPE DENSITY

Marcucci definitely feels that slope density regulations are necessary. (This amendment to the County zoning ordinance is scheduled to come before Plan-Com for another hearing on February 14.)

"The maintenance of the natural environment to a reasonable extent is the primary intent in regulating hillside development," Marcucci explained. "We have no desire to inflict hardship on property owners."

GRADING REGULATION

The grading regulation which has been proposed along with the slope density formula amendment to the County Zoning Ordinance would require a grading permit from the Building Official before working on a site. The permit would cover both excavations and fills and would be issued with permission of the Planning Commission.

"The only delay which would be caused in beginning work would be the time involved in getting the request before the Planning Commission," explained Marcucci. "There would be no waiting period required before a builder could start grading as some developers seem to think."

VALLEY ROAD

Planning Commissioner Marcucci feels that the section of Carmel Valley Road between Los Laureles Grade and the Village should be widened and improved, but should still remain a scenic corridor.

Marcucci said that his position on Planning Commission actions would reflect the community's interest in carefully regulated development and the expressed desire of the majority to retain the natural beauty of Carmel Valley, with equitable treatment to the subdivider within the framework of county regulations.

Rocky terrain slows PG & E CV gas job

Work is not progressing as quickly as had been hoped, Claude Hicks of P. G. and E. told the Outlook recently, referring to the status of the natural gas line for upper Carmel Valley.

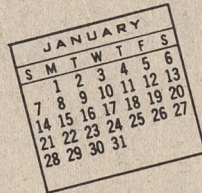

Six crews are now working in the Valley, according to Hicks, with a total of 75 men. They are part of P. G. and E.'s general construction crew and are sent out from the San Francisco area for specific large jobs. Most of the men live in and around the Bay area although many of those working in the Valley are from San Jose. They commute each day, but the others are staying in motels in Monterey until the job is completed.

"Normally a crew will lay 2,000 feet of pipeline in a day, but they have run into so much rock that the average has dropped to about 400 feet," he explained.

Originally planned for early in January, the official turning-on of the main gas line has now been postponed until the last of the month, if all goes well.

Crews have been installing 3/4 inch pipe to houses along Via Contenta, Ford, Flight and Poppy Roads. Service to most of the residences in La Rancheria has been completed and that crew will move on to other sections of the Valley.

Although pipe has been delivered throughout Robles del Rio, excavation had not yet begun in that section last week.

When the fire fighter was a spectator

The fire fighter just stood there and watched the truck burn. He had the fire fighting equipment to extinguish the flaming truck on the road to Chews Ridge above Jamesburg—but he didn't have the authority to put the fire out.

A U. S. Forest Service fire fighter, he explained to the hapless owner of the burning truck, Ray Halley of Carmel Valley Cleaners, that the fire which occurred several weeks ago was just within the State Division of Forestry protective area. After it began to get dark and looked like the state fire fighters might not arrive at all, the U. S. forester decided to finish off what fire was still smoldering.

This bizarre story, when researched by The Outlook, offers considerable extenuating circumstances to the U. S. Forest Service fire fighter. But it, nevertheless,

The Carmel-Carmel Valley is criss-crossed with a dramatically illustrates problems created by the multiple fire-protection jurisdictions in the area and the need for clearer communications.

Halley had seven children with him in his CV Cleaner van and was on his way from his Cachagua home to take them to the snow up on Chews Ridge. He had just filled the tank with gas, which he suspects prevented it from blowing up.

A phone call for help went clear to the Arroyo Seco ranger station, and it took the Forest Service fire truck another hour to get to the burning truck.

Although the truck was pretty well gutted by the time the forester arrived, Halley was still somewhat non-plused that he refused to do anything.

"Flames were shooting up, and had it been dry, there could have been a forest fire," he said, "and the story would no doubt have been different."

The second moral to the incident is the rapidity with which the remains of the truck were picked clean.

Halley left it at about 6 p.m. and returned the next morning at 11 with a Highway patrolman. In that short time, plates were removed and some antiques, particularly some porcelain door knobs, plus tools, were taken. And the body was riddled with bullet holes. Inexcusable vandalism!

The Carmel-Carmel Valley area is criss-crossed with a variety of fire-area jurisdictions. Carmel, which has its own first-class fire department, is now surrounded by two service areas, which are building their own protective system, with the cooperation of the State Division of Forestry.

The State has responsibility for protection outside of these areas and of the Carmel Valley Fire District, which does such an effective job for the Upper Valley. The state takes over again about a mile beyond the Village and is responsible for the huge rural area outside of the Los Padres National Forest, which is under the U. S. Forest Service.

Each has co-operative agreements with each other, but, of course, each takes care of his own first. Considering the patch-work system, it's a wonder more weird incidents like Halley and his burning truck don't occur.

PERSPECTIVE

TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Outlook:

Re: Marian Weygers' letter in Outlook concerning "Hole-in-the-Head" Shopping Center.

I am in favor of people. While I am generally in sympathy with the idea that additional shopping centers are unnecessary for Carmel Valley Village, I am appalled at Marian Weygers' appeal for less people and her stand against more people. May I point out that at some time in the history of this Valley, all of us including Marian Weygers were in the category of "more" people. I would like to think that she and I not only had the right to come here but that both of us were welcome.

I wonder if Mrs. Weygers has a practical suggestion as to who should be required to "go" first in order that we may have less people.

More people are coming. Let them be welcome and become useful and happy members of our community. This hospitable attitude is not to be confused with an orderly, well planned and controlled development of our unique Valley.

Sincerely yours,

Stanley Johnson

The Rhyming Philosopher

You'll never see the day to dawn
When you're no longer you.
The man has never yet been born
To make the world anew.
But somewhere deep within each soul
There springs the urge to try—
To seek expression in some goal
Which nothing shall deny.

The infant leaps within the womb,
The child must needs rebel.
And on his journey to the tomb
The adult feels the spell.
Some mystic force of unknown birth
Compels us each to rise
And claim a better life on earth
Or look toward the skies.

To stand erect and overcome,
To reach beyond a star,
To be alive and venturesome
Is knowing what we are.
Some call it Man's eternal fight
To rise from swamp and sod,
To conquer night and claim the light—
While some just call it God.

Rev. Cree happy in new Community Church ; seeks bronze tower bell

It is easy to see that Burkert Cree, minister of the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula, loves his new church. In conducting a tour through the building, with its enclosed patios, textured aggregate floors, stark white walls and wooden beams, he conveys a feeling of pride and total enjoyment in his surroundings.

Being a Community Church, and nondenominational, many of the symbols of all Protestant churches are included in the decor and fittings, and Mr. Cree is eager to explain each. The baptismal font of unusual design combined with an altar, the pulpit with its early Christian symbols, the dove of peace. . . each is utterly simple and in complete accord with its surroundings. And, in these surroundings Rev. Cree appears a happy man.

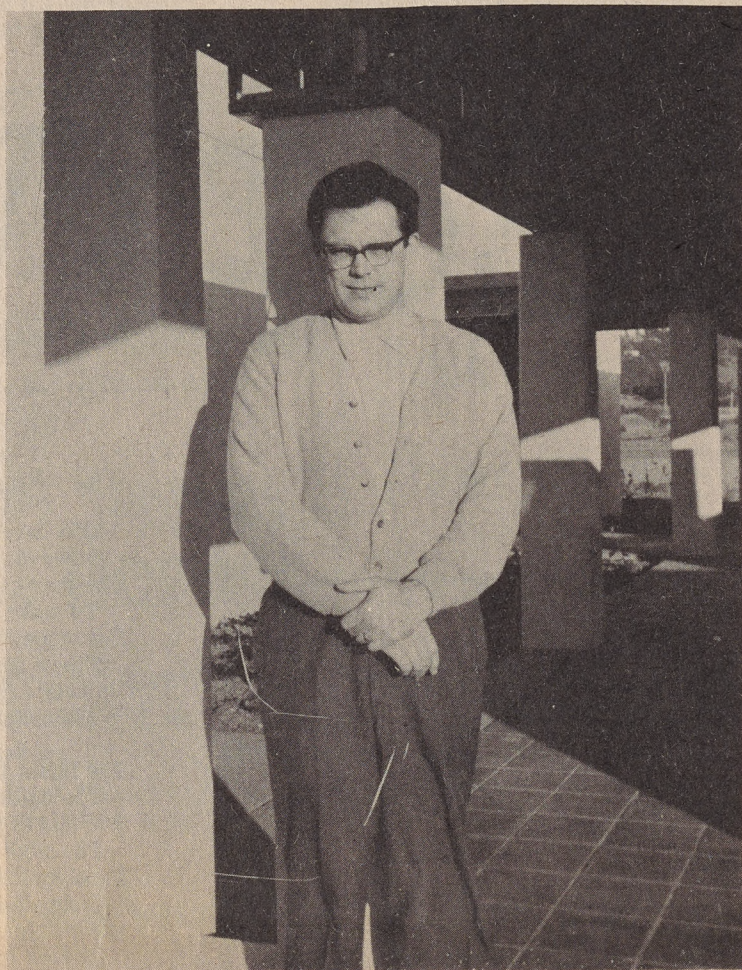

FROM WISCONSIN

Prior to coming to the Peninsula in 1964, Mr. Cree and his Swiss born wife Angelika were living in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, where he was pastor of the First Congregational Church of Wauwatosa for two years.

After graduating from Harvard Divinity School, Cree had gone to Europe for the summer and visited a friend in Zurich, Switzerland. It was then that he met his friend's sister, Angelika. They were married the following summer, in July of 1961. Angelika speaks four languages in addition to English, and so it is natural that their children should be multi-lingual too. Both Tobias, who is 5 1/2, and George, who is 3 1/2 speak Swiss-German as well as English.

This past summer, the whole family went to Europe for a vacation and visit with Angelika's family in Zurich. She and the boys went in May, and Mr. Cree followed the next month.

While traveling to Naples, Italy, to visit a large Methodist orphanage which the Community Church helps support, the Cree's stopped off in Rome.

BELLS OF ROME

He had been looking for a bell to replace the one which is presently at the church. It was donated by someone on the Peninsula, but because of being made of steel rather than bronze, the tonal quality is not quite church-like. To buy one in this country is very expensive, so he decided to see what he could find in Rome, where there are bells, bells, and more bells.

Finally they discovered a bell foundry . . . the only one still in existence out of 25 which had been in the city. This particular foundry had been housed in the room for 400 years and was still operated by members of the original family.

No decision was reached on a bell, however, the experience of going through the foundry was a fascinating one, Cree said.

A very straightforward man, and most enthusiastic one feels that he gets the most out of every experience . . . and passes it on to others.

archaeologist Mr. Giles Healey of Big Sur.

After the showing there will be a social hour with punch and les galettes (puff pastry containing favors) and the crowning of the evening's king and queen.

Members of l'Alliance, their families and guests are cordially invited to attend.

Dr. Heisler to teach extention course

It offers 3 quarter units credit, and the prerequisite is junior standing and Psychology 1A or equivalent, or consent of the instructor. Course fee is $37.00.

In addition to her private practice and other outside duties, Dr. Heisler is president of the Monterey County Mental Health Society.

Pebble Beach man is dental society pres.

At the December meeting of the Monterey, Santa Cruz, and San Benito Counties Dental Society, held at The Deer Park Tavern, Rio Del Mar, Calif., Roger T. Erickson, D.D.S., Pebble Beach, was elected President.

Dr. Erickson's specialty is Pedodontics, and has his office at 775 Kimball Ave., Seaside, California.

'Africa Today' to be subject of Carmel Women's Club talk

The first program of the new year for the Carmel Women's Club will be on Monday, January 8, at 2 p.m., at the Clubhouse. Jean-Pierre Hallet, author, lecturer and explorer, will speak on "Africa Today."

If any white man can be said to have seen and done everything in Africa, it might well be that Mr. Hallet could lay claim to that distinction. A sociologist and naturalist as well as an explorer, Mr. Hallet is also a linguist, an art collector, animal trainer and author of a best-seller, "Congo Kitabu." (Kitabu in Swahili, means "book" or "diary," and Mr. Hallet's account of his African adventures is full of danger and excitement.)

In 1948, at the age of 21, the 6 foot, 5 inch explorer embarked on his official career as sociologist and agronomist for the Belgian Colonial Government. Determined to meet the Africans on a man-to-man basis, he threw the rule book aside and lived the life of the people he had come to study. As a result, he was riddled with tropical diseases, stabbed, speared and perforated with poisoned arrows. But it also resulted in his gaining the favor of the various tribes collection of African artifacts, said to be the world's largest and finest private collection (acquired by the University of California in 1963) and brought it to the United States. He is now associated with the University as African Lecturer.

The meeting will be conducted by Mrs. Robert Bannister, Club President. Acting as hostesses for the day are Mrs. Don Gilbreath and Mrs. Fred Albertsen.

The speaker will be introduced by Mrs. J. C. Hale, Program Chairman, and pouring at the tea tables following the program are Mrs. Rolf J. Ullestad, Mrs. Margaret S. Wilson, Mrs. Marion W. Stevens and Mrs. Jessie B. Caffee.

Expansion and CHS accreditation high on list

Supt. Harris Taylor reviews past accomplishments and tells goals

The kids may have been home from school last week, but the offices at the Administration building of the Carmel Unified School District were far from deserted.

Superintendent Harris Taylor and much of his staff were hard at work on a four year projected population and budget study for the district and a recap of progress so far

ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Of the accomplishments in the district during the past year, Superintendent Taylor felt three were of utmost importance. He commended the school administrators which have been assembled and who are functioning so well as a team.

The five year program which was initiated to renovate and improve all of the school plants is ahead of schedule. Superintendent Taylor places credit for this on the business manager, Walt Hinton. So much progress has been made that they anticipate reducing the time to three or four years.

He feels that the impressive list of talented teachers which the district has been able to hire has completed a list of accomplishments to be proud of.

Major problems which the district is now attacking come under two categories: physical and academic.

EXPANSION

Realizing the fact that the school plants already have become or will soon be too small to house the student population, Taylor is taking each school individually, studying its needs and attempting to project an expansion plan based on projected population and classroom needs.

Some of the schools have sufficient land around them for future enlargement, but many will be drastically limited in what can be done.

Carmel Middle School is surrounded by about 50 acres. Decisions for that plant depend somewhat on whether or not it is turned into a high school as it was originally designed for (with the middle classes taking over the present high school.

There is little room to go at the high school site. A possible fine arts, library and theatre building could be added, releasing those rooms presently used for these purposes for regular study rooms. However, beyond this, the plant must remain pretty much as it is.

Woods School cannot be expanded at all and River School needs a library which would give them several more academic class rooms.

Tularcitos School is bulging at the seams and has little room for sufficient expansion, according to Taylor. There is a possibility that the sixth grade could be moved to Middle School which would release several rooms, but intensive study must be made at the Upper Valley to determine the best utilization of space, Taylor said.

Carmelo School, which only houses kindergarten through fourth grade has plenty of room to take care of expanded student population in the Middle Valley.

Captain Cooper School, in Big Sur, has plenty of land (27 acres) but not very many children.

FUTURE SITE

The twenty-plus acres that are school district property near Scarlett Road are presently designated as a future middle school site for Valley youngsters.

Taylor hastened to explain that all these ideas are in discussion to the administration and school board can look ahead to what can be done and not be caught in a bind without planning for the future. No decisions are being made on anything at this time.

INSTRUCTIONAL PLANS

The administrators are working to better coordinate the different facets of the instructional program to ensure consistency in quantity and quality of instruction from school to school and from grade level to grade level. They hope to have an integrated and enmeshed program that will standardize quality but will also be geared to the individual person. Just as a person must have a philosophy of life to be a well adjusted and productive individual, so must a school district. So, the administrative team is working out the philosophy of where the district is going . . . what the end result will be.

Another problem that they are attempting to solve is the balance curriculum. There is a need to strengthen the vocational-technical education program of the district, and the Peninsula school districts are continuing their studies of a cooperative program in vocation instruction.

The final, but by no means the least important of current problems which must be resolved is the accreditation of the high school. Under the new principal, Arthur Gumbrell, Taylor feels that a five year accreditation instead of the current two year evaluation will be possible. The high school staff has cooperated to the extent that they expect to invite the accrediting committee back in the spring.

So, with the final semester of the school year beginning shortly, the Carmel School District appears to have accomplished a great deal, but it has its work cut out for it too. No resting on laurels here.

New MPC students must take tests

College placement examinations for those planning to enter Monterey Peninsula College for the spring semester will be given on three dates in January and once in February.

The Cooperative English Test and the School and College Ability Test, required of all new day students before counseling and registration, will be given January 6, 13, and 27 (Saturdays), 8 a.m. to noon in the library lecture hall on campus.

Primarily for evening students planning to take certain humanities courses, the Cooperative English Test will be given February 2 (Friday), 6 to 9:30 p.m., also in the library lecture hall.

Registration dates for day students are February 1 and 2. Registration for evening courses will be conducted by mail January 2 to 24 and on campus February 1 and 2.

MPC's spring semester will begin February 5.

Traditional recipes of South America are favorites of the S. N. Trevino family because they are reminiscent of years spent in Mexico and Peru.

Dr. Trevino served as Director of Foreign Language Studies for the State Dept. in Mexico City for 2-1/2 years and made his headquarters in Lima during the 5-1/2 years he served as supervisor for the teaching of Spanish to U.S. Embassy personnel in eight South American countries. Mrs. Trevino was able to take advantage of many opportunities to travel with him to other parts of the continent.

She has selected dishes most characteristic of these countries, including two (the Anticuchos and Picarones) which in Peru are sold hot from street stands, cooked while you wait.

The Trevinos belong to Fidelity, a couples' club of the C.V. Community Chapel. Dorothy Trevino is also a member of the Chapel Guild and the Carmel Valley Women's Club.

ANTICUCHOS (Peru)

Cut 2 lbs. boneless beef into cubes (about 1-inch size). Pour over it the following marinade and let stand 4 or 5 hours or more, stirring from time to time:

- | | |
|--------------------------|--|
| 1 cup vinegar | 2 or 3 hot peppers, ground |
| 1 tsp. salt | without seeds |
| 2 tsp. ground cumin seed | 2 or 3 cloves of garlic, finely ground |

Remove meat from marinade and place on metal or bamboo skewers, and cook over charcoal until done. As the meat cooks baste it with the remaining marinade to which about 3 Tbsp. of cooking oil has been added.

PICARONES (Peru)

- 1 cup cooked yellow squash, measured after putting through blender
- 2 cups water, including that in which squash was cooked
- 1 package dry yeast, softened in 1/4 c. lukewarm water
- 1 egg
- 4 cups flour (more may be added if necessary)

Combine squash, water, softened yeast, and flour. Beat egg and add to mixture. Let rise and knead intermittently for at least 2 hours. Pull off small portions and fry in deep fat, as for doughnuts. Serve warm, with chancaca sauce. The sauce is made by dissolving dark brown sugar in a little boiling water and cooking it for a few minutes.

CEVICHE (Ecuador)

Ceviche is popular in most Latin American countries, and is usually made with raw fish. In Ecuador, however, it is made with cooked deveined shrimp, as follows:

- | | |
|----------------------------------|--|
| 1-1/2 to 2 lb. shrimp | 2 small onions, sliced very fine |
| 1 cup lemon juice | |
| 2 Tbsp. orange juice concentrate | 2 hot peppers, cut in very fine strips |
| Salt to taste | |

Mix all together and let stand 3 or 4 hours in refrigerator (may stand longer if more convenient). Serve as the first course. Pass finely chopped salted peanuts for each guest to sprinkle on top of ceviche.

DULCE DE ALMENDRA (Mexico)

This almond dessert originated in the area of Puebla, Mexico.

- | | |
|-----------------------------|----------------------------|
| 3 egg yolks, lightly beaten | 3 cups sugar |
| 1/2 tsp. vanilla | 1 cup water |
| 1/8 tsp. salt | 2/3 cup sweet dessert wine |
| 1-1/2 cups ground almonds | 1 sponge cake, sliced |

Mix together the egg yolks, vanilla, salt and almonds, and let stand while you boil the sugar and water for 5 minutes. Remove the syrup from stove and divide in two equal parts.

To one part of the syrup add the almonds and eggs and cook slowly, stirring constantly, until thick and custardy. To the other part of the syrup add the wine.

Dip slices of the cake in the wine-syrup mixture, and place in alternate layers with the almond custard in a greased baking dish. Bake in a 300 degree oven for about 1/2 hour. Serve hot or cold, but do not refrigerate.

iar things taken out of context make abstract studies by Aaron Siskind

A new exhibit of photographs by Aaron Siskind, director of photography at the Institute of Design of Illinois Institute of Technology, opens Friday evening at the Carmel Photography Center in Sunset.

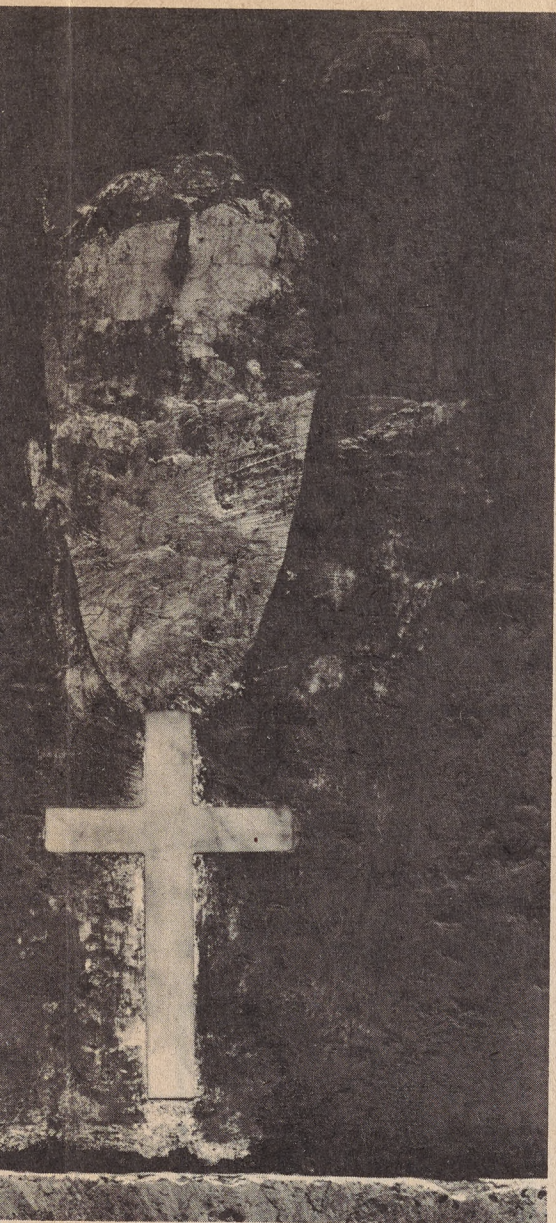

The "Rome" series of photographs reproduced here reflect his credo of making each an altogether new object within itself.

These studies run the gamut from a peeling handbill to a crumbling wall, but out of context each is a different entity.

The exhibit which is sponsored by the Friends of Photography will remain on display at the gallery through February 8. Hours during the winter are from 1 to 4 p.m. daily except Monday.

DURING THE HOLIDAYS, truckloads of rock were delivered to Tularcitos School for the construction of a retaining wall adjacent to the bus driveway. Bob Parkhurst, who is unloading the materials, told the Outlook that he had suggested the stone wall as a more attractive solution to the problem than concrete or cement blocks.

New CV Chamber president stresses the importance of preserving Valley charm

Tom Bottaro will assume the duties of president of the Chamber of Commerce at the first board meeting of 1968 tomorrow. The noon meeting will be held at Plaza Linda Restaurant and he emphasized that all Chamber members are invited to attend the monthly board meetings.

Tomorrow president Bottaro plans on setting up working committees to take care of major items of interest to the Valley such as roads, beautification, business promotion, zoning, etc.

RETAIN AURA

"I'm afraid that the Chamber has on occasion gotten the reputation of being solely for business promotion, to the exclusion of all else, and this is a fallacy. Many Chambers of Commerce do exist only for this purpose, but in Carmel Valley, I feel we are unique. The members certainly wish to promote business, but not to the detriment of the community. I feel that whatever growth there is should be under effective local control. We certainly want to retain the aura, the color and flavor of the Valley, rather than promote it into a glorified shopping center," he stated.

SUGGESTIONS

Bottaro feels that the different interests of the Valley are represented responsibly by the Chamber and the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, and these two groups welcome constructive criticism and suggestions.

One of the major items that Bottaro would like to see the Chamber take on during the coming year, is better identification of the boundaries of the Valley. He suggests that perhaps through Congressman Burt Talcott some measure might be introduced to change the postal boundaries so that the entire Valley would be handled from here instead of from the Carmel Post Office. At the present time, the Valley west of Farm Center is on routes serviced by Carmel and there are continual mixups. Just the matter of billing alone would be simplified if the entire Valley were to be considered a political as well as a physical district.

If the matter of correcting the mail boundaries is brought up, Bottaro thinks it would be worth it to check the same kind of change with Pacific Telephone, although he conceded this might involve too much with the changing of numbers.

"But, nothing ventured, nothing gained, so we might as well see what they say," he added.

MEMBERS SOUGHT

The Chamber is somewhat limited in what it can do because the only money which they have, except for the advertising budget which they received from the county, comes from membership dues. These dues are only $15 per year, and Bottaro urges all local business people who are not now members to consider joining the Chamber.

In this way they can become a more effective voice as the Valley grows and develops.

THE BIG FREEZE

Since creation, plants and animals have been subject to the elements. These elements sometimes wiped out those things which were unable to adjust themselves, and all that was left behind as a witness were their fossils. What happened a few days ago is a mild example of what has been going on for a long time. The temperature dropped to 15 degrees, and this was accompanied by a dry wind; according to official weather reports, the wind chill factor made the temperature equivalent to zero degrees with still wind.

Some poor plants were unable to withstand this onslaught. Freezing of the contents of their cells caused the rupture of cell walls. Some leaves look like they have been dipped in boiling water; others are dry as a bone. Some of these plants will make a come-back; others have died. Try not to clean up the plants now. The dead tissues still have a function to perform in protecting the plant from cold. When the weather starts to warm up and there is no danger of frost, then it will be time to prune and clean up those plants which are found to be still living.

REMEMBER TO WATER

Remember during these winter days to water plants in tubs and pots which are under eaves, and which are not getting rain-water.

yourself with pruners and saws. "Sunset" magazine has published a book about pruning which is well illustrated and which makes it easy to understand the fundamentals of pruning. Sealing the cuts you make is very important. It prevents the encroachment of insects and disease on living tissues.

HELP THE HUMMERS

These days there are not many flowers in our gardens to supply nectar to our pretty little hummingbirds. So take pity on them and fill their feeders with sweetened water (1 cup sugar to 5 cups water). Using honey instead of sugar gives the birds more minerals and vitamins.

Andy Fitzgerald, Jr. arrived from studies at Northrup Institute of Technology in Inglewood to spend the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Fitzgerald of Laurel Drive. The Fitzgeralds and their son drove to Hanford on Christmas to spend the day with their daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. James Parker, Mary Ann, Janelle, and Lori Ann.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Ollason of La Rancheria were dinner guests on Christmas day at the home of Louella's cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dietrich of Watsonville who hosted a large family holiday gathering.

Bill Stowers, Jr. flew into San Francisco, December 16, where he was met by his parents, Cdr. and Mrs. William Stowers. Bill, on leave from Officers Candidate School in Fort Sill, Oklahoma, enjoyed a lot of golf, working out with the Carmel High varsity basketball team, and the many friends who dropped by during the continuous open house held by his parents during his Valley visit.

The final week of his leave is being spent in Leakey, Texas, with the members of the "Up With People Cast" with whom Bill traveled for a year. All three casts of the Moral Re-armament program have assembled in Leakey for the holidays to polish their tours.

Cast "A" is Europe bound with shows scheduled principally in Italy. Cast "B" is slated for shows in Uruguay and Argentina. Cast "C" will tour the southern part of the U.S. and then the Scandinavian countries.

Irene and Lin Sims of Esquiline Road enjoyed a house filled with members of their family during the holidays.

Irene's daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Graham, were here from Santa Rosa with their son, Michael. He was relaxing from classes at Northwestern where he is working toward his doctorate. Joining them from Santa Rosa was the Graham's daughter, Mrs. Kathy Shear, with her son (and Irene's great grandson), Brian.

"Let's put Nelson in the Hoel," read the invitations, which were designed like replicas of the USS Hoel, issued by Pat and Don Cummings. They arranged a farewell party Friday night for Vietnam bound Lt. William Nelson.

Mrs. Wallace Winslow, a member of the advisory board for the American Institute of Foreign Study, is a guest with Mr. Winslow at the Valley home of their son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Winslow of West Carmel Valley Road. The senior Winslows are from Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs. Winslow is quite anxious to contact any parents in the area who have teenagers between 15 and 19 years of age who might be interested in applying for study in one of fourteen different European Universities where they study for seven weeks and travel for two. The program was described recently in an article entitled, "The World Is Their Teacher."

The Institute is also interested in interviewing teachers interested in chaperoning students, an average of ten students to a tour. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace took a group of twelve to Greece a year ago. The program offers opportunities for study in Spain, Italy, Germany, Israel, and nine universities in England.

Some programs are filled, however, applications will be accepted up until March. The price runs from $740 to $990 per student.

There are some scholarships available such as one at Exeter where a student may submit literary work for judging.

If any civic organization in the area is interested in presenting a scholarship to a deserving young person, the Institute will pay half of the expense.

Mrs. Winslow may be contacted at 659-2905. The nearest office for the Institute is in San Jose or Burlingame.

Review

Circle does right well by 'Luv,' a wryly clever comedy

"Luv" which opened at the Circle Theatre last weekend, is a comedy for our times. Aptly named, it is not about love; it's about luv.

We wish we had used superlatives more sparingly in '67 so that our bouquets might be effectively thrown at this one, for surely Director Norman McPhee has excelled himself, as well as being fortunate in finding a well-nye perfect cast.

The plot has to do with three characters who meet on a bridge and change partners. In the second act, which is also the last, the same people meet on the same bridge and change back again. In the meantime, a lot of absurdly witty lines bounce back and forth between them.

A twilight colored spotlight is evenly divided between the three players. Each has a zesty role to play and happily is equal to it, expertly hurling out slings and arrows of outrageous dialogue to be just as expertly fielded and returned.

Joyce Malakoff is a whiz-kid grown up who doesn't know what's troubling her feminine mystic.

Dick Bird has a part which lets him cap his success as the alcoholic uncle in "Ah Wilderness" (which is saying a lot.) In this one, he can let his whimsey show as a suicidal mis-fit (a funny one, if you please).

And, Bob Lotz (whose strong point is the wild gleam in his eye) is a luv lorn husband who thinks he knows all the answers.

All three know exactly what this play is all about and we recommend that you let them show you before the movie of the same name comes round and spoils it for you.

Another important asset of this production is a bridge built by Derek Napier Lawford for the express purpose of keeping us wondering whether all or any of the characters will jump, fall or be pushed off. . . . And there is good bridge-type lighting, too, by William Lewis.

Other credits go to Mona Fletcher, stage manager, and Mabel Craig, costume coordinator and properties.

"Luv" deserves the bumper audience that "Arms and the Man," "Charlie's Aunt" and "The Mikado" got at the same theatre last year. But spectators will necessarily be more limited as to age. "Luv" is not for children, but elderly teenagers should appreciate it.

"Luv" is by Murray Schisgal who has gotten lots of kudos for this and other plays on and off Broadway in recent years.

It may be seen at the Circle Theatre on Cassanova near 9th in Carmel Thursday through Sunday evenings. It's a production of The Golden Bough Players of the Community Theatre of the Monterey Peninsula.

Special bus for Valley children to Carmel for Symphony concert Saturday Jan. 13th

Carmel Valley youngsters will have the opportunity of hearing the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra in a program designed for young people of grades 4 thru 9 on Saturday morning, January 13 at 10 in Sunset Auditorium.

Thanks to the co-operation of the Carmel Unified School District, the Carmel Valley bus will leave Tularcitos School at 9, following regular route and stops.

The free concert will feature as soloists, Greg Sprung, 18, Carmel trumpeter, and Thomas Turinia, 15, of Seaside, pianist. They were winners of the Young Artists Auditions in November, which with the Youth Concerts, are sponsored by the Junior League of the Monterey Peninsula.

The concert will feature music of the romantic and contemporary periods, reflecting the national folk music and surroundings of the composers. The 50-minute program will open with "The Star Spangled Banner," followed by "Finlandia" by Sibelius, selections from Beethoven's Symphony #6, Manuel de Falla's "Miller's Dance" from "The Three Cornered Hat," Aaron Copland's "Saturday Night Waltz" and "Hoe Down" from "Rodeo." Mr. Sprung will play Hayden's Trumpet Concerto and Mr. Turinia will play Khachaturian's Piano Concerto.

The Monterey County Symphony Orchestra and the Junior League of the Monterey Peninsula offer these free concerts with the hope of fostering and maintaining interest in good, live music among young people.

Mrs. John Rushmer, Carmel Valley, is president of the Junior League and Mrs. Robert Priestly, Carmel, is Young Concerts chairman.

A CONCERT DESIGNED for young people will be given by the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra at Sunset Auditorium on Saturday, January 13 at 10 a.m. Jan de Jong, Symphony conductor, explains one of the instruments to Bill and Robert Priestly, whose mother, Mrs. Robert Priestley of Carmel, is the Young Concerts' chairman.

UNDER THE OAKS & AMONG THE CACTI

By Mildred Hattan

Peggy and Don Morse invited the employees of Aldon's Restaurant on Cannery Row (Don is a co-owner) to their Country Club Drive home, December 17, for a Christmas party. Cocktails and dinner were served in a lovely setting of blue and gold Christmas decor.

Invitations were extended to Gertrude and Robert Ellis, Marie and Mike Bomarito, Doris Howard, Edith Kennedy and Dan Neubaum, Luane McCartney and Kerry Kruse, Ruth and John Upton, Sel McDaniel, Jesse and Dorothy Smith, Ginnie and Barry Butler, Dale Hahn, Dave Caruso, and Gwynne and John Miller.

There was a tie for first place when the Valley Bridge Club met at the Community Center for a pre-Christmas evening of play. Sharing first award honors were Mr. and Mrs. Gravelle and Mrs. Lois Ann Bethea and her partner, Jeff Hudelson.

Third place also resulted in a tie awarded to Mrs. Irene Baldwin and partner Mrs. Mary Angier and Col. A. L. Freidenthal and his playing partner, L. T. Alden.

Celebrating her birthday "just before Christmas" with a dinner party at Will's Fargo was Beulah Corona assisted by husband, Sam, Mr. and Mrs. Don Corona, and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Glod.

The Sam Coronas joined their son, Don, and his wife, Regina, children at their home on Paso Hondo for Christmas dinner. Other guests included Regina's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bee of Monterey and Don's grandfather, Mr. Gilbert Olson of Monterey.

Guests invited for dinner Christmas day at the Laurel Drive home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Edwards were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hughes, their daughter, Wendy, her two friends, Elaine and Virginia, and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hansen.

The Edwardses enjoyed an after Christmas visit from their son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Edwards and daughter, Lisa, of Long Beach.

The anniversary of a wedding ceremony performed fifteen years ago in Los Altos was celebrated Thursday night by June and Ken Van Hagen of Paso Hondo. Joining the Van Hagens for dinner at Will's Fargo were Jean and Don McKenzie.

Overnight guests at the Horizon Way home of Col. (ret.) and Mrs. Adolph Freidenthal were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Cowles of Culver City. The Cowles had spent the Christmas holiday in San Francisco with their son and his family and enjoyed the Freidenthal hospitality and the Valley sunshine before continuing home through the Big Sur country.

The eighty guests invited to Open House December 22 at the East Garzas Road of Joan and Dave Morris were welcomed by a large Santa, climbing over their fence under the big oak tree to join the festivities. In addition to drop-in guests who enjoyed the beautiful decorations made by Joan were house guests who included her mother, Mrs. Wilson Coffey of Tacoma, Wash., their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wright of Corvallis, Oregon (where Dick, a student at Oregon State University had just been advised that he has been accepted for Dental School).

Bill Ashman, of Hillsborough accompanied by a young friend from Lima, Peru (both young men are in their senior year of Foreign studies at the University of Oregon at Eugene), and Dick Leshley, another U. of O. student who is remaining through New Year's, enjoyed the Morris' hospitality.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lockwood, Jr. and children of Toyon Way shared their holiday with George's mother, Mrs. George Lockwood, Sr. who is a Valley guest from Skokie, Illinois.

A trip to California for the holidays with their family was the fortieth wedding anniversary gift to each other from Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Ortman.

The residents of Newton, Kansas, are guests of their son and his family, Lt. Cdr. and Mrs. Dean Ortman on El Caminito. Christmas morning was a special occasion for the eastern visitors as they watched their grandchildren; Mike, Steven, and new arrival, Daryl, open their gifts.

Services for Martin Flavin, noted writer

Carmel and Carmel Valley's grand old man of letters, Martin Flavin, passed away last week at the age of 84. Although Flavin had spent most of his time in recent years at his ranch in Cachagua, his death came at Community Hospital, a result of injuries received in a fall at his daughter's Carmel home a few days after Thanksgiving.

Born in San Francisco, Flavin spent his boyhood in Chicago and studied at the University of Chicago. As he ventured into playwriting in the early 20's, he shuttled between Carmel and New York.

As a playwright, Flavin was successful at a very early age. Many of his works for the theatre were premiered in Carmel. His play, "Children of the Moon," ran on Broadway in 1923 and was followed by many other successes. In 1929, he had three hits on Broadway, running at the same time.

In 1940, Flavin published his first novel, "Mr. Littlejohn." His third, "Journey in the Dark," won the Pulitzer Prize in 1943.

Flavin traveled extensively, lectured and wrote continually and at the time of his death was at work on a novelization of an unproduced play, "The Road to Damascus," which was scheduled to be published by Harper and Row.

He is survived by his daughter Flavia Flavin of Carmel, two sons, Sean Flavin, an attorney in Monterey and Martin Flavin, Jr., a biochemist in Washington, D.C. Two grandsons, Christopher and Colin Flavin and a step grandson, Robert Clappett. All reside in Monterey.

On this 29th day of November, 1967, before me, LOUIS C. MOORE, personally appeared THEO MIRANI, known to me to be the person whose name is subscribed to the within instrument, and acknowledged that he executed the same.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my official seal the day and year of this certificate first above written.

William Spann manages new, larger Safeway at Rancho Shopping Center

Manager of the new Carmel Rancho Shopping Center Safeway store, which opened Dec. 28 is William Spann, who managed the old unit there, Safeway local District manager J. A. Jones announced.

Spann began his Safeway career as a food clerk in 1948. He was promoted to produce department manager in 1952 and to assistant manager in 1955. Made a store manager in 1961, he served in that capacity in Berkeley, San Francisco, Hayward, and Campbell before being promoted to Carmel January 15, 1967.

Born in Madison, New Jersey, he completed his schooling in Winslow, Washington. He served in the U. S. Navy Submarine branch during World War II.

He attended Lafayette College in Easton, Pennsylvania where he majored in liberal arts.

The new store will have a staff of 50 who will earn an estimated $400,000 annually.

Assisting Spann in supervising the crew will be Richard Peterson, assistant manager; Edward Passaglia, meat department manager, and Michael Roach, produce department manager.

Roughly twice the size of the former unit, the new Safeway store is designed along Monterey mission style.

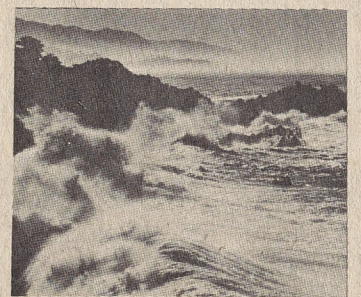

The supermarket is served by a well landscaped parking lot with space for 175 cars.

The main feature of the new store is its huge non foods department. Featured are candles, socks, sweatshirts, books, toys, stationery, yarns etc.

Sunsets..... Sandpipers on the early morning beach... the wonderful "clean" smell in the air... 5,592 Monterey pine trees and 3,068 oak trees, 1,232 acacias and 490 cypress (inside the city limits). Give her bird songs in the morning and moonlight on the water and squirrels to feed and racoons to watch. Give her the white sand beaches, and time to walk on them, and a dog to walk on them with her.

And Give Her Quaint Shops

to browse and artists and craftsmen to provide delightful things to look at, and a public library with a fireplace which is USED... fascinating people from all over the world for her neighbors... symphonies to hear and ballet to watch, or auto races, or golf matches, or dog or horse shows.

Let Her Have Pt. Lobos

and lots of live theater and seven o'clock in the morning at Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey. Let her have the cool mist of the beaches or the sunshine of the Valley. Let her take the classes in anything she wants to learn from Greek to sculpturing.

Expense?

Most of it is free except the 50 cent fee at Pt. Lobos or unless you buy a fish from the wharf markets. (If she acts or works in production, she can have free tickets to most everything in the theater line.) (And the dog is waiting at the animal shelter.)
